Explosion Kills Bruce Mincy

The drum reveals Mincy had only begun to cut when the explosion occurred. (Note the warning label on the can.)

Bruce Mincy, 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mincy, was killed instantly Saturday afternoon by an explosion. He was using an electric saw to cut a metal drum in half when a spark ignited solvent fumes in the drum causing an explosion that ripped the top out of the drum. The top partially decapitated Mincy and landed thirty or forty feet from the scene.

Edward (PJ) Young, told Coroner Marvin McIlwain, Sheriff Neil Grantham and The Elba Clipper that he and his cousin had already cut one drum in half and he (Young) carried one half to a nearby hog pen. The sections were to be used as watering troughs. Young said he heard an explosion just as he got to the hog pen, and upon rushing back to the front of the house, found Mincy lying on the ground, apparently dead.

Mincy, an ex-GI and a student at John M. Patterson Technical School in Montgomery, was spending the weekend with his family. He was studying transmission repair at the school. Mincy was unmarried.

The 55-gallon drum was labeled as containing Flexipal Solvent Cleaner produced by Atlantic Solvents & Chemical Company, and was clearly labeled with a Warning Flammable label on at least two places (the side and the top). It read in part: "Warning Flammable - Keep away from heat, sparks and fire."

The electric saw still had the $29.95 price stamped on the side.

Sheriff Neil Grantham was patrolling within several miles of the scene six miles north of Elba in the Lee Community when he heard a radio report of an accident. He rushed to the scene, thinking it was an automobile accident. When he arrived and realized what had happened, he called back and informed the Elba Police Department to cancel the call to the state troopers, and sent the coroner.

The Elba Rescue Squad removed the body after Grantham and McIlwain had completed their investigation.

County Coroner Marvin McIlwain examines the accident site, approximately 6 miles north of Elba. Young Mincy's body lies under the sheet next to the drum that exploded.

Edward Young tells Coroner McIlwain how accident occurred.

Mr. Austin Harris was named Man of the Year, and Mrs. Ethel Johnson Woman of the Year.

The event was sponsored by the Three Seasons Garden Club.

Bid Awarded For Lunchroom Construction

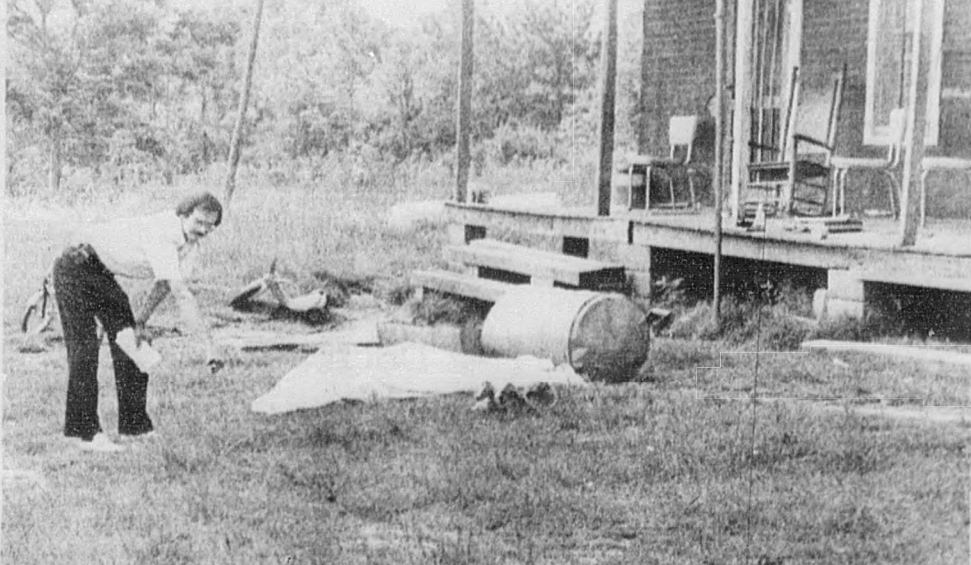

Bids were opened Tuesday on construction and remodeling of a new lunchroom at the Elba High School. Low bidder on the project was Henderson Black and Green of Troy, with a bid of $219,777.

The majority of the money will come from state funds. The last school bond issue passed by the Alabama Legislature included some school capital outlay funds and $215,801.44 remained in the fund earmarked for the Elba system. The balance will come from the local Superintendent Elmer Taylor noted that a new kitchen will be constructed outside the present building, and the dining room remodeled and expanded to include the old kitchen area. Air conditioning will be installed and a small built-up platform will be built in the dining room to benefit banquets held at the high school.

Planning by Taylor and the school board prepared for this new construction and the installation of all new kitchen appliances. The appliances are already on hand and paid for from other funds. By purchasing them over an extended period, the system managed to acquire new appliances by putting up only 25% of the money locally. The balance came from outside sources allocated in limited amounts each year. The new facility is expected to be completed in working days or sometime this fall. The architect is Chambers and Killingsworth of Montgomery.

Bob Geddie Makes Campaign Stop In Enterprise

Bob Geddie told the Enterprise Rotary that the tax cut vote in California should send a loud message to every politician that the average taxpayer wants to hold the line on taxes and spending.

Geddie, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress, pointed to the Proposition 13 vote as a first step toward tax reform. "This vote was important because the people of California have said to the politicians, if you are not going to enact tax reform, we the people will!" He went on to say that his first choice of committee assignments will be a seat on the House Ways and Means Committee. "Tax reform must begin in the Congress, and I want to be part of it."

The candidate also called attention to the "economic war" being fought between the Sunbelt and the Frostbelt. He said, "Last year the Northeastern congressional caucus rewrote a complicated funding formula which took community development funds away from counties like Coffee and Montgomery and redistributed these funds to the big cities in the Northeast. Now they are directing their attention to our

Coffee County Commission Handles Routine Business

The Coffee County Commission met in regular session on Monday, June 12, at the courthouse in Enterprise, and handled routine matters in an unusually quiet meeting.

Present at the bi-monthly meeting were Probate Judge James L. Sawyer, Commission Clerk Brunese Winston, County Engineer Leslie Mullins and Commissioners Glen Grant, Rex Bottwell, Jack Hornsby, Don Smith, Bennie Beckham and Max R. Reeves.

The commission's first visitor was a representative of the Phillips Coal Company of Tyler, Texas. The representative asked the commission's permission to drill test-holes along county right-of-way and throughout the county in an effort to locate coal. The commission was told the company would pay $25 for each hole drilled. The commission told the representative negotiations should be with the individual landowners.

The commission concurred unanimously with a request by the Elba Water & Electric Board on a grant in the amount of $492,000 for extension of the City's waterlines. All the commissioners felt the project would aid county residents in the areas of extension.

A representative of Home Life Insurance Company addressed the commission and presented it with a dividend check for $854.83. The board was informed that county employees paid $54,514.11 in premiums, while claims totaled $35,445.74. The commission expressed pleasure with the company and its policy, but only renewed the contract for one month so other insurance agents could meet with the commission in an effort to get the best policy at the most reasonable rate.

The commission approved payment of the final bill from Humint and Associates for property tax reappraisal work. The bill paid was $30,500, completing the county's obligation of $305,000.

Mr. Nix Andrews headed a delegation from the Shiloh Community seeking road work across from McCall's Store. Andrews reported the roads were impassable after a rain and asked that they be paved. Leslie Mullins told the group that funds have been requested from HUD for complete grading, draining and paving of the roads. Mullins added that certain landowners in the area wouldn't sign easements for work to be done. Mr. Andrews stated he would get all the easements signed if the work would be done.

Sgt. McKinnon, a member of the delegation, told the commission that drainage ditches were needed on the Old Elba Road because the road had eroded until it was almost impassable. McKinnon added that if the Old Elba Road was not fixed, it wouldn't do any good to pave the roads in the subdivision, because, "You won't be able to drive your car to the roads."

Engineer Mullins reported he would conduct a survey on the county property and asked the commission to check the property line and promised to move the fence if it was on county property.

Two representatives of City Auto Parts met with the commission in the afternoon session and asked why they didn't get a bid on a recently awarded contract for the County Highway Department. The men stated that several "parts stores" didn't receive invitations to bid and stated they would have bid if given a chance.

Judge Sawyer apologized to the men and reported he had made a mistake in the mailing of invitations for bids. Sawyer assured the men a similar mistake wouldn't happen again.

Engineer Leslie Mullins presented the commission with a check for $827.75 to be used in secondary road repair. In other action, Mullins: reported the Highway Department would begin work on the Week's Bridge Road when all the easements are signed; received permission to send out invitations for bids on pipes; received the okay to install flumes at two sites; reported the promotion of a Highway Department employee; received the okay to repair a crawler-loader at an estimated cost of $6350; and reported his department had cut down on accidents and sick-leave.

Mr. Glen Reeder, from the County Board of Education, and Mr. Nelson Whitehurst, principal of Goodman Junior High School, addressed the commission and asked that the county do work on the school playground. The work would consist of covering a road, leveling the field and removing a hedge. Mr. Reeder reported the work would cut-off a local resident's only means of getting to a barn and requested the commission do work on the man's land so another road may be used.

Engineer Mullins reported he would go to the site and check the time needed to complete the job, but added the county couldn't do work on private property.

Mrs. Justice Bell headed a large delegation of women and children from the Wise's Mill Community, and informed the board that a property owner had erected a fence along a creek used for swimming and baptizing. Mrs. Bell felt the fence was on county property and asked the county to move the fence. The commission agreed to check the property line and promised to move the fence if it was on county property.

Sheriff Neil Grantham told the commission his office had been having complaints over the conditions of the courthouses. Grantham reported he takes trustees to the courthouses at least once a week to try to clean them up. But it does not do much good.

Sheriff Grantham also reported the shape of the jail is getting worse and that at the present time 30 inmates were housed at the building. Grantham reported the jail had leaks, needed painting and needed work done on the kitchen.

In other action at Monday's meeting, the commission: heard a request for road work by Mr. L. J. Hornsby; received a report that the county's landfill met with all state regulations; received a letter asking to nominate a person to serve on the Southeast Alabama Health Board. The letter stated the nominee should be a white male aged 18-34; were informed in a letter from Reed, Roberts and Associates that the county was liable for unemployment insurance for employees of the tax assessor and tax collector; received a report stating the County Jail had passed state inspection.

discussed the lack of space at the courthouses and agreed to provide extra space for Circuit Clerk Jim Ellis. and paid bills.

At press time Wednesday, only one additional candidate had qualified. Danny Bradley, Coroner for the Enterprise Division of Coffee County had qualified for re-election.

Bloodmobile Coming To Elba June 22

The bloodmobile will be at the Elba Assembly of God Church, on Highland Drive, from 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. on Thursday, June 22.

Blood will be taken by appointment only and prospective donors are asked to call 897-2301 or 897-2782.

Through April, only 57 pints of blood have been donated in Elba, while 521 pints have been sent to the Elba General Hospital. Therefore, Elba has fallen 174 pints short of its needs.

Under the old policy, districts could receive blood from other centers. However, now each area must provide its own supply of blood. It is imperative that 120 pints of blood be collected at each drive.

Permanent blood cards and temporary cards for the past two drives will be available at the church, and all donors are asked to pick-up their cards.

POOR ORIGINAL

BRAINSTORMS

With Ferrin Cox

The Melba Till Allen story will continue to be news in Alabama for many, many months to come. Probably it will be referred to several times a year for the next twenty years, regardless of the results of the future trials and any appeals she might successfully make. We see here a person with much voter appeal, but coming up on her blind side was something that no voter appeal could overcome, and, therefore, her political career is for all practical purposes, over and done with forever.

Mrs. Maryon Allen, widow of the late Senator Jim Allen, is now officially the junior Senator from Alabama, having been appointed by Governor Wallace to fill the unexpired term of her late husband. The term is only until a special election on November 7 selects someone to fill the remaining two years on the six-year term. Mrs. Allen has said she would be a candidate for that also, and very possibly will face Governor George Wallace, who has indicated interest in the race. However, Wallace wrote in a Washington newspaper, words to the effect that Washington was not the place for him, citing physical and other reasons. The question now is, will he or won't he be a candidate?

The vote of people in California to cut property taxes over 50% was expected, but still has state and local governments in a tail spin. For us to understand just how high taxes had gotten in that state, we need only compare it with Alabama's, which is the lowest in the nation, even after the reapportionment. If we do, we see that the new appraisal value of his family home, using the NEW California reduced rate, the property tax would be $151 higher than it actually is now. Using the high California appraisal of all homes, it would be much higher. Point . . . even as we fuss about high taxes, we still have the lowest per capita property tax in the nation . . . let's keep it that way, but refrain from causing shutdowns in schools, hospitals, recreation and law enforcement.

The Elba High School is finally going to get a new lunchroom. It will cost over $200,000, but it was truly needed. Even the Alabama Health Department was frowning at the old lunchroom. It will not be ready by September, but sometimes in the fall, students will be fed from a brand new kitchen and will eat in an expanded, remodeled dining room!

A lot of concern has been expressed over the needs of the Elba High School. The general feeling is that major repairs would be wasting money, and a new building is the answer. Superintendent Elmer Taylor suggested to a group of parents last week that a "pod system" of getting a new school might be the only answer. This means getting a master plan and building parts of the new building at the time, as money becomes available. This has worked in other communities, and the only apparent alternative is to borrow money and pass another tax to repay the loan. Some people would push for the new tax, others really don't care one way or the other, and another group would fight the additional tax strongly . . . and would probably win. Let me hasten to add that no school or city official has advocated additional taxes for this purpose - they have only acknowledged the possibility.

Not a single "friend" came forward to sit in for me at our daughter's dance show last week; and after many nights of watching practice, I again watched the real thing. By golly, I guess my friends have now been counted! Anyway, she might not yet have an offer to perform in Moscow, but Mother and Daddy know she is probably better than those who have been invited.

Ye ole editor and son were in Montgomery Sunday to get the word from Albert Brewer on the plans for his campaign for governor. A bunch of other folks had the same idea, and we had to stand around the meeting. The $211,000 turned over to Brewer sounds like a lot of campaign money to country boys like me, but several years ago a political expert said it would take over a million dollars to conduct a successful campaign for governor in the State of Alabama! With several candidates trying to be successful, a lot of folks will be making political contributions this year.

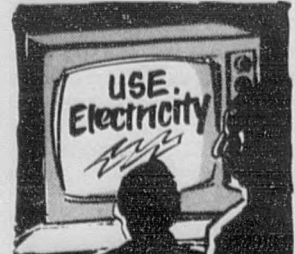

One evening this week ye ole editor decided to find out for sure if we were going to have a recession this year or next year. Well, after hours of reading different opinions and never getting the answer, we got sidetracked on trying to understand something else. Interest rates the Federal Reserve charges banks has been going up. Always I thought this was to cut down on the amount of money being borrowed. Now I find the money supply has increased by billions every week in spite of the increased interest. This completely confuses my mind . . . and leaves me with a bunch of questions without answers and these are questions I didn't know existed a week ago! Next time it will be better for me to read a Zane Grey western or a dirty magazine and let someone else study the more complicated things that take some thinking.

Use More Power

In a series of advertisements, an electric company encouraged its customers - in effect - to use more power. Later, in applying for a rate increase, the company included these ads in its list of expenses.

When environmentalists raised objections to this item, the company said it had a right to be competitive. However, the court decided that such advertising - at least, when demand was already high - was not in the public interest. "The stark reality of the situation," said the court, "is that our energy problems are here to stay. In the face of dwindling oil supplies, promotional practices which only serve to fuel the energy crisis should be viewed with extreme caution."

It is customary when a public utility wants to boost its rates, to submit evidence that its costs are going up. But both courts and utility commissions are taking an increasingly dim view of ads urging greater use of scarce resources.

Other kinds of advertising, however, are usually accepted expenses in a rate application. Thus a telephone company ran "institutional" ads to improve its public image. This expense, a court decided, was all right because customer goodwill is an asset to the company. Besides, said the court, such ads could stimulate investment in company stock, making possible lower costs for the com-sumer. What about a utility's contributions to charity? May these be passed along to the public in a rate increase? Some courts say no, saying it would be forcing customers to make donations without their consent. But more often these expenditures have been upheld. "Corporations," explained one court, "have an obligation to the communities in which they are located and they are expected to recognize this obligation."

NATURE'S OWN MILK FACTORY

There are literally thousands of animals that produce milk—all female mammals produce it for their young. And they can produce milk for several years after giving birth. I suckled continuously.

But only a few mammals, like the dairy cow, have been bred to produce milk for extended periods of time. With June Dairy Month beginning this week, a few facts about dairy cows seem fitting. I am reporting these from a National Dairy Council leaflet for teachers and health leaders.

COWS were not always the efficient milk producers they are today. Early tribes needed up to 10 cows to provide enough milk for just one family. After all, the cow's milk supply was originally intended for just her calf. With selective breeding and improved diets, a good cow now can provide about 24 quarts of milk a day—enough milk to feed 32 children.

To produce that much milk, a high milk-producing cow is fed an amazing amount every day: 20 pounds grain, 12 pounds hay, 49 pounds silage—chopped green corn, sorghum, grass-legume mixture; plus pasture grasses and 25-30 gallons of water. In comparison, the average American eats about 4 pounds of food in a day. So dairy cows eat about 20 times the amount of food humans do. Cows can eat many foods humans cannot because of their unique digestive system. Their bodies can digest bulky, fibrous feed such as hay, silage, and forage.

While the cow uses approximately half of the nutrients she eats to maintain body maintenance, the other half is used to produce milk. It takes the cow's body about two days to turn feed into milk.

SIX to 12 cows can be milked by hand in an hour. Milking machines average about five minutes for maximal milk removal. With modern milking machines, pipelines carry milk straight from the cow to the cooler—without its touching human hands. The cow's milk is about 100°F (38°C), the cow's body temperature. Milk is rapidly cooled in bulk coolers to the farm to 45°F (7°C) or lower to keep it fresh. In her lifetime, just one cow may give over 200,000 glasses of milk.

Names of 168 Enterprise State Junior College students who maintained a B-plus or better grade-point-average (GPA) during spring quarter and qualified for the Dean's List have been released by Dr. Joseph D. Talmadge, academic dean.

Wyatt has been one of the most outspoken and successful first-term members of the Alabama House. He was selected in 1975 as one of the top 10 Legislators in the entire Nation. During his very first term he was elected chairman of the Montgomery County delegation one of the largest delegations in the State. He was a very active and very powerful chairman of L.L. 4 and served on three other committees.

In his announcement Representative Wyatt said, "During the past four years I have been the instrument through which the average citizen could have some input into the law-making process. I have spoken the voice of the forgotten men and women who feel that the government has passed them by. I have visited each community in my district at least once each month to discuss the problems with the people. I have polled my district on major questions and voted according to their wishes."

Wyatt said that the average citizen knows that he is the one that is having to bear the tax burden of this complex society and yet he is receiving very little in return. Two of my top priorities after re-election will be: 1. Seek a reduction in utility rates on the citizens of Alabama. 2. Put a stop to runaway property taxes on our homes and farm land.

As I have done the past four years I intend to protect the interest of State employees.

Some people used to believe that staring at candles would strengthen the eyes.

The most years worked by one person is 86. This record was set by Poly Gadsby who started at the age of 9 and wrapped elastic for the same company until the age of 95 in 1932.

THE JESSIE FILLMON FAMILY

"A TRIBUTE"

I would like to make a short tribute to a man many people did not know in this area only by his face and name as Jesse Fillmon.

Old Uncle Jesse passed away the morning of June 5th at his breakfast table. Old Uncle Jesse farmed a part of my land for nine or more years. During these years I did not hear him use profanity or obscene language.

I don't think he could read or write but he had something that many of us will surely need before we cross the Bar, "The love of God the Creator, in our hearts."

Old Uncle Jesse was not interested in politics, neither in religion or facts.

In my dealing with him through the years mentioned, I think he adhered to the Biblical phrase (Luke 6:38), in the fall of year when division time came around he would give good measure press down and shake together and running over. That was the part he wanted me to have.

Uncle Jesse was a poor man financially but was rich spiritually.

We have seen often times when our president sent someone to represent him at a funeral of some elite.

No one from Washington came to Old Uncle Jesse Fillmon's funeral.

PASTOR'S CORNER

"SALVATION IS FROM THE LORD"

Salvation is what Christianity is all about. For that reason and because of that reason the church exists today and has existed for nearly two thousand years. Those who have been saved are now bonded together in an effort to give that salvation to a lost world. The Bible being the Book of God's People has much to say about His salvation. Let's look and see what it says.

New Testament missionary Paul writes, "For by grace are you saved through faith; and that not of yourselves it is the gift of God" (Ephesians 2:8).

His lesson is clear. We cannot achieve our own salvation no matter what we do or try. It is God's "gift," free, easily acceptable, readily and willingly offered. All that is required is that we surrender our lives to Him and accept the free gift. God has done all the work and righteousness that is required.

Old Testament prophet Jonah left his story, is remarkable as it is, it is still more so when we realize what Jonah learned from his experience.

After hearing Jonah's call to preach to his enemy, Jonah ran in the opposite direction. He sailed on a ship, was thrown overboard, swallowed by a great fish, survived what he wanted to do or try. It is still more so when we realize what Jonah learned from his experience.

It's Summer Camp For Boy Scouts '78

Preparations are nearing completion for this year's summer camp '78 at the Boy Scouts' Alabama-Florida Council reservation at Camp Alafia, located near Enterprise.

The camp begins June 18 and will continue for three weeks.

During the three-week session, an estimated 300 to 400 Scouts from the 10-county area, with Scoutmasters, will be on the reservation, earning merit badges and participating in all aspects of Scouting.

Registration for the summer camp is due. Registration fees are $35 per person for the week.

While at the camp, Scouts will have an opportunity to attend special classes for various merit badges and for attaining various skill awards.

Most of the merit badges and skill awards will be taught both in the morning and afternoon classes, as well as at special night classes according to demand.

If a Scout wants to work that hard, he can earn up to six merit badges during the week through the classes. The usual number is about four, however, because there are plenty of free time activities for the Scout to participate in.

The decisions are made when the troop sits down with the counselor to plan what they want to learn.

Now in its tenth year of operation, the camp provides specialty instruction for 50 Scouts in such aspects as backpacking, pioneering, ax-throwing, cooking, use of map, compass, fishing and hiking.

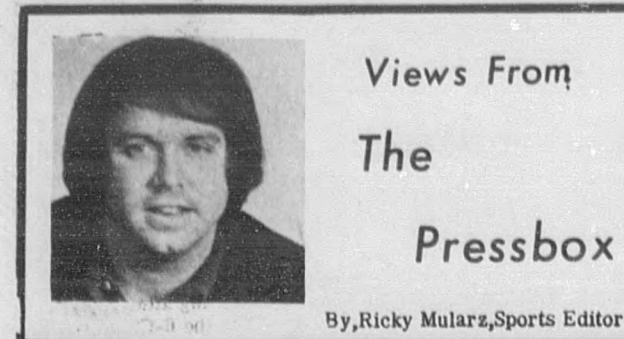

The standards cover every aspect of camping, such as health and safety, food service, medical treatment accessibility and living conditions.

One week prior to the camp opening, a pre-camp session is held to find any defects which may exist in the camp and steps are taken to correct them in all aspects of Scouting.

The Elba Softball Classic will take place this weekend with 16 teams battling for the lovely 66-inch first place trophy. Action starts tonight at 7:30 and there will be 7 games on tap for Friday. At least 22 games will be played Saturday, so, local fans should get a chance to see quite a bit of ball!

I don't predict softball games, but if I did, I guess the favorites this weekend would be Hudson Industries, A.F.C., Greenville Bank, English Furniture, Jay Bulls or Skinner's. Any of these six teams could win it all!

Hospital, Hardy's Construction, Cook Chevrolet and Wise's are all entered in the tourney, and if they play good ball, they all could claim a trophy. I urge all the Elba fans to at least watch the locals play, and cheer 'em on!

Kathy and I went fishing Sunday in Greenville, and while Kathy was busy pulling in a bream, I was slowly drowning my bait. I was told that the bass in the pond would hit shiners, but as usual "Ye Ole Sports Editor" got skunked! Maybe next time.

The races got rained out last weekend at Kinston, but the four-wheel drives were going strong at Opp. Jim Phillips is covering the mud races for the CLIPPER, and is doing a good job. Jim used to race the mud track and he hopes to be back in the action before long.

Good luck!

Homeowners Need To Look Out For Termites

A termite can enter through a crack as small as 1/64 inch, which is one reason pest control and prevention often require professional help, according to Cliff Kersay of Kersay's Termite Company, a local member of the National Pest Control Association (NPCA). He also stated that termites cause over $500 million worth of damage to American homes every year.

NPCA, the non-profit organization of professional pest control operators, offers the following guidelines for pest control and prevention:

- Try to keep your residence or business as dry as possible, especially bathrooms and areas around water heaters, sinks and humidifiers.
- Keep trash and garbage built-up to a minimum in your home or work area. If refuse must pile up between pickups, try to store it away from the house.

NEWS FROM ALABAMA LUNG ASSOCIATION

HOT PEPPER SAUCE TREATMENT
Eat garlic to cure a cold? Gargle with hot pepper sauce to treat bronchitis? Sound ridiculous?

The answer may be "yes" on all counts. But, according to Dr. Lewis Ziment, Associate Chief of Medicine at the San Fernando Valley Medical Program at UCLA, hot, spicy foods are proving helpful to patients with lung disease. Dr. Ziment presented his views at a recent seminar sponsored by the American Lung Association of Louisiana.

Still, garlic and onions, says Dr. Ziment, can help prevent as well as cure a cold. And, he says, "if perchance such hot, spicy food isn't equally good for your ulcer, then all you have to do is sprinkle 20 drops of tabasco sauce into a glass of water, use it as a gargle, and your bronchitis will improve."

Dr. Ziment said people who eat bland, non-spicy food seem to have more trouble with their bronchitis than those who eat spicy food. Exactly why this might be true is not clear. But eating horseradish and hot foods may trigger an overproduction of mucus in the lungs and also in the respiratory system. The outpouring of fluid, which is thin mucus rather than thick, may help clear breathing passages. Before trying spicy remedies, however, lung disease patients should consult their physician about the best treatment for their own conditions.

Preventing bronchitis and other lung diseases is a lot easier than treating them. And since cigarette smoking is the major cause of chronic bronchitis and other long-term lung diseases, quitting smoking is the best way to avoid lung trouble.

To find out more about the causes and cures of lung diseases, contact your Alabama Lung Association. THE CHRISTMAS SEAL PEOPLE, P.O. Box 904, Dethan, Alabama 36820. They care about every breath you take.

LAW ENFORCEMENT IS EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

By Chief M.W. Johnston
AUTOMOBILE PROTECTION REMINDERS
The Independent Insurance Agents Association states, in 1950 one out of every 236 registered vehicles was stolen. By 1960 it was one out of every hundred. Today, somewhere in the nation, there is a motor vehicle stolen every 30 seconds around the clock.

Theft of his automobile is by no means the owner's only concern. With every identifiable type of vehicle on the market, the problem isn't confined to cars. Everything from bicycles to airplanes are stolen daily. Vehicle theft rings operate all over the country. In many instances, your car could be stolen, repaired, replaced with another car, and sold or dismantled in a matter of hours.

Before entering your automobile, even the first time in the morning when it is still in the garage, make it a habit to look into the backseat floor area. This basic precaution should be observed by men as well as women because, regardless of your size and strength, if a hidden attacker has a gun you will definitely be in serious danger. It happens frequently!

When driving at day or night keep doors locked, windows up. Criminals who prey on motorists can jump from the sidewalk, open the door and have a gun at your head in seconds. If you own a convertible, driving with the top down in almost any area can be an open invitation to an unwanted passenger seeking more than just a ride.

White national statistics indicate hitchhikers are far more apt to be the victims of a crime than the perpetrators, unless you recognize a hitchhiker as someone you know, avoid such situations. Even in cases where the hiker is standing beside a stalled vehicle or in obvious difficulty, if you want to help, go on down the road and call someone to assist the person. Too often stalled cars are part of criminal schemes to play on your sympathies, so you will stop and lend assistance. Be particularly suspicious of these situations in areas that have little traffic.

Obviously, leaving keys in the ignition when you get out, even if only for minutes, is foolhardy. The mere sight of the keys in an unattended vehicle is an irresistible temptation to many, especially the young. Many juveniles have given this as the sole reason for stealing a car. "Just to take a ride."

This department does not recommend leaving an extra key under the hood or magnetically attached under the fender, or anywhere on or in the vehicle. The first thing a professional car thief looks for is an extra key, left in what is thought to be a secret place.

When shopping, and making trips to and from your vehicle at intervals, lock it each time, storing valuable purchases in the trunk rather than on the backseat or otherwise in view from outside. Cameras, gift-wrapped packages, and other items of obvious cash value, are often the cause of windows being smashed. The thief too smart to steal a car knows -- if he can break in and get the contents -- it is extremely difficult to identify newly purchased items, even if he is caught.

Grass-based rotation
Would you like to have a 2-1/2-ton per acre peanut yield on your farm? Marion Sanders, of the Roten Community, did just that last year.

Sanders explained that he had planted his peanuts on land that had previously been in a bahiagrass sod for about 20 years. When following a good bahiagrass sod, peanuts can produce 2-1/2 tons per acre.

There are many advantages to using a grass-based rotation. First of all, this type of rotation conserves soil and moisture for future plant growth. Secondly, with a continuous grass cover, bare spaces in the soil are larger, and the plowpan or hardpan common in most cultivated fields is almost absent. This allows for better root growth and penetration to find water during the hot, dry summer months. Lastly, the soil has a larger organic matter content than land that has been continuously cropped. Weed, insect and disease problems are also lessened because of the continuous cover on the ground.

Chapple Carleton of East Enterprise, has been using a grass-based rotation for the past four years with excellent results.

Law Officers Arrest Two Tending Their Crop Of Pot

OFFICERS IN FIELD OF POT DESTROYED SUNDAY

The Coffee County Sheriff's Department ended a budding farming operation Sunday when they arrested Leon Bess, Jr., and Daniel Layton, both 22 years old for growing marijuana. Sheriff's deputies reported observing the young men cultivating their "crop" of the illegal weed.

About 90 growing plants were pulled up by the law officer, who stated they had the site under investigation for about a month. Working on the investigation and arrest were Deputies Ray Norris, John White, Bobby Wigham and auxiliary deputy Bobby Boutwell along with State Trooper R. W. Whitworth and Sheriff Neil Grantham.

Grantham had high praise for the members of his department Sunday, noting they had put in long hours of work to be on the scene when the pair returned to cultivate their crop.

Grantham Seeking Reelection To Office

C. F. "Neil" Grantham of Elba has qualified as a candidate for re-election as Coffee County Sheriff. He has served as Chief Deputy under the late Ralph M. Sparks and was elected in 1974 to a full term as Sheriff of Coffee County.

In making his announcement Grantham noted that in his last campaign he used the theme, "He Cares". He believes he has shown the people of Coffee County that it was a true statement. Grantham stated that he cares even more for the people of Coffee County after having served as sheriff during this term.

Grantham released the following statement, "For four years, I have had the pleasure of serving as your sheriff in Coffee County. During this period, I am happy to report up-dated techniques and highly qualified personnel have enabled the department to cope with the staggering burden of modern day paperwork and still maintain a high degree of law and order throughout the county."

He continued with, "I am thankful that you, the people of Coffee County gave me the opportunity to dedicate myself to the task of upgrading the department. Now, during this election year, I ask your help again. I solicit your vote and continued support, so that we may collectively work to keep Coffee County a pleasant and safe place in which to live."

I have strived to employ qualified, professional personnel that care and feel as I do about the people of Coffee County. I have been successful in this to the point that we have the highest qualified, best trained staff in Coffee County history," Grantham stated.

Grantham, a native of Coffee County, was born at Bates Crossroads and attended schools all over Coffee County, graduating from Elba High School on the GI Bill after WW II. He is the son of R.C. Grantham and the late Mrs. Ozetta Grantham. His step-mother is Mrs. Ethel Weeks Grantham.

Sheriff Grantham has two sons, Kenneth in Dothan as manager of a finance firm, and Charles, an eighth grade student in a Virginia Jr. High School.

A veteran of WW II, Grantham served with the United States Army in the Far East. He was a successful businessman for 25 years and has been in law enforcement for almost eight years. He is a member of the Baptist Church, VFW, American Legion, FOP and Alabama's Sheriff's Association.

Walker served overseas 43 months as an enlistee in the U. S. Navy and currently serves as a personnel officer in the Alabama National Guard. Since 1967 Walker has served in various capacities in education and has introduced several improvements relating to business procedures in public school systems which have been copied all across the state.

The special election next month is to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of former Representative Joel Folmar.

Mathis Plans To Seek Senate Seat

Nathan Mathis, age 35, of Wicksburg, has announced plans to seek the Senate post from District 25, now held by Crum Foshee.

Mathis, a graduate of Slocum High School and Alabama Christian College, is presently serving as chairman of the Houston County Commission, a post he has held for 3-1/2 years. Mathis is a member of the Christian Home Church of Christ, is a Mason and a Shriner. He owns a farm supply business in Slocum and farms.

"As chairman of the Houston County Commission, I feel I am familiar with the problems faced by both county and city government," stated Mathis, "and I want to meet the problems head-on. That's the only way to solve them."

"All counties have road problems," added Mathis, "and I think more money should be spent on roads. The Legislature must allocate more money for road paving, and it doesn't have to be collected from additional taxes."

Mathis reported that for the past two years, the Houston County Commission has not had to borrow money to cover expenses and added that ing their July food stamps and normal issuance hours of 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. will be observed. The Food Stamp Office, as well as the Department of Pensions and Security in Elba, will be closed on Monday and Tuesday, July 3 and 4, in observance of Independence Day.

Walker is married to the former Ann Bots of Banks, and they are the parents of two children, Judy Ray Colley and Jimmy Ray, Jr. Ray is a member of the Gideon and the Elba Baptist Church and a member of the Elba Baptist Church in Troy.
